

MARKET CONTEXT

- Significant growth sits on the horizon for financial firms.
- Through 2048, firms are faced with the largest wealth transfer in history. This, while McKinsey reports a simultaneous shortage of ~100K advisors, at the same time they're needed to manage that vast wealth.

$84T – $124T
“Great Wealth Transfer”
(from Boomers to tech-forward Gens X + Z)

50%+
Transfers from HNW/UHNW households
(2% of all HH)

57%
Millennials will collect $1MM+
(with 26% anticipated at $3MM+)

72%%
Believe stocks and bonds alone won't drive their greater returns. They seek institutional-grade solutions typically reserved for family
officest

88%
Relatedly interested in private markets

50%–65%
Gen X, Y, Z beneficiaries expect stronger digital and tech-first solutions

81%
Beneficiaries intend to switch from their parents' advisors

70%
Women stand to gain majority of wealth transfer

THE OPPORTUNITY

Significant opportunity for financial advisors to capture the ‘great wealth transfer’. Growth-minded and AI-enabled advisors will be best positioned to win.

*Sources (ahead of BAV persona validation): OpenAI prompt informed by commonalities across past financial services and luxury DTC persona clusters. Sourcing from Capgemini World Wealth Report, PwC High-Net-Worth Survey, UBS Billionaire Ambitions, Bain + McKinsey Wealth Management insights, plus Prince & Baeckström, FPA behavioral finance literature.