

Affiliation Type	Reasons They Stay	Reasons They Consider Leaving	CVR Angle / Appealing to the Itch
Independent Broker-Dealer (IBD)	1. Full autonomy / control 2. High payouts 3. Compliance + supervision support 4. Practice ownership: keep their own brand and client relationships 5. Operational “good enough”: not perfect, but switching feels like work	Push (pain): Dated technology, high B/D fees, lingering commission conflict. Sometimes a limited national brand and succession planning desires. Seeking higher payouts. Pull (aspiration):	The "Tech Upgrade": A modern, fully-integrated technology stack that replaces the fragmented legacy tech of IBDs, allowing them to attract and better serve HNW clients efficiently and at a lower cost, and maintain their autonomy.
Registered Investment Advisor (RIA)	1. Full autonomy / control 2. High payouts (up to 100%) and long-term EV 3. Client trust / loyalty 4. Flexibility to grow on their own terms	Operational scale, finding institutional-grade HNW resources, technology integration costs, while keeping high payouts and autonomy. Scale driving opportunities without the back office. Sometimes lack of national brand, as well as succession uncertainty.	The "Scale Engine” The next-gen solution for successful RIAs. A platform that provides institutional-grade research, HNW-specific investment access, and seamless back-office support to accelerate AUM growth beyond what their current, manually-intensive model allows. All while maintaining their autonomy and strong payouts.
Wirehouse	1. Built-in infra 2. Prestige brands 3. Easier prospecting potential 4. Comp (more senior levels)	Low payout, limited product shelf, bureaucratic compliance, legacy systems/tech.	The "Breakaway Path" High-tech platform, superior payout, and a path to true autonomy without sacrificing sophisticated HNW infrastructure (e.g., alternative investments, trust services).
Bank/Insurance/Captive B/D	1. Training & structure: strong onboarding, sales coaching, playbooks, mentorship 2. Product simplicity: Limited product set to know and master — gets comfy 3. Payout path (for top producers): strong comp if producing consistently	1. Limited upside: harder to build a true HNW advisory practice within the model 2. Desire for recurring revenue: shift from transactional commissions → sustainable AUM fees 3. Credibility gap with HNW prospects: “I don’t want to be seen as a product salesperson” 4. Limited platform / modern experience: tools can feel behind; disjointed client experience	The “Upmarket Transition”: A modern, advisor-first platform that helps successful insurance producers evolve into a premium, planning-led wealth practice—with the technology, investment capabilities, and support to retain clients, grow recurring revenue, and win higher-quality households.
